Butts Awarded $3.6 Million by U.S. Jury

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal court jury awarded Wally Butts a $3,600,000 judgment today in his $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post.

ATLANTA (AP)—Twelve men returned today to a federal district court jury room to ponder for the second day the $10-million libel suit brought by Wally Butts against publishers of the Saturday Evening Post.

The jury mulled over the suit for nearly six hours Monday without reaching a verdict. Court was recessed and the jurors sent to a hotel for the night.

Butts is suing Curtis Publishing Co. for an article in which the Post said he leaked information about University of Georgia football plans to the Alabama head coach, Paul (Bear) Bryant, before their schools played in 1962.

The jury room is across the hall from the courtroom where the trial has run for more than two weeks. Jurors spent the night in 12 separate hotel rooms with two deputy marshals outside their doors.

Butts, stocky and greying at 58, remained at the counsel table Monday during most of the jury's deliberations. His wife and three daughters went to a nearby hotel to rest shortly after the case went to the jury at 2:40 p.m. Two of the daughters returned later.

Dressed in his customary dark suit, the former Georgia athletic director sat most of the time with his hands clasped.

Judge Lewis R. Morgan, in his charge, told the jury that truth is the complete defense in a libel suit. The Post article is libelous per se, or on its face, he said, but "substantial truth" of parts of the article containing what he called the "string of the libel" would be a complete defense.

"If you find that Butts did give information to Bryant which could have affected the outcome of the game, you will find for the defendant company," Morgan said.

He said that if Butts had failed to prove the truth of the article, the jury should rule in Butts' favor and fix the amount of damages he would receive.

A person with a bad reputation, Morgan said, would not be entitled to the same damages as one with a good reputation even if libel was proved. Some University of Georgia officials testified Butts' character was bad.

Morgan warned the jury that any libel committed against Bryant is not an issue in the case. Bryant has a separate $10-million libel suit pending against Curtis.

Gets 7 Years in Shotgun Slaying

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP)—R. J. Moses, 33, a Negro of Huttig, was sentenced to seven years in the State Penitentiary Monday for the shotgun slaying of his estranged wife, Georgia Mae Moses, 33, and her boy friend, Vernon Grissom, 40.

Moses pleaded guilty in Union Circuit Court to a charge of second degree murder.

The shootings occurred Oct. 6 at Fiesenthal.

Concern Grows for One of Trapped Miners

By JAMES V. LAMB
Associated Press Staff Writer

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP)—Determined rescue workers pushed ahead today through fog and dampness with two drilling operations in efforts to reach three miners trapped more than 300 feet underground since last Tuesday. Concern grew for one of them.

Under glaring spotlights in the middle of the night, a 40-ton, electrically operated drilling rig, capable of boring a hole 48 inches in diameter, began operations aimed at opening a hole 24 inches in diameter so the men can be lifted to the surface.

A road about a quarter of a mile long had to be made by a bulldozer so the drilling apparatus could be moved to the scene.

Simultaneously, in a renewed effort to provide a lifeline to Louis Bova, 42, of Petersonsville, rescuers resumed drilling a twin six-inch hole near the one through which contact was established Sunday night with the trapped men. Bova is separated from the other two by debris. He hasn't been heard from since Monday morning.

H.B. Charnbury, state secretary of mines, said he was quite concerned about Bova.

The large drill began operations at 3:45 a.m. with a 12½-inch bit. Plans were to enlarge the opening to 17½ inches and finally 24 inches.

Charnbury estimated that under the best conditions the 40-ton drill could dig 40 feet an hour. This means it would take a little more than eight hours to go 331 feet where the men are trapped. But one engineer estimated it could be as slow as 20 feet an hour.

Early this morning, David Felling, 58, of Shepton, one of the trapped miners, suggested workers drill the large escape hole five feet west of the original.

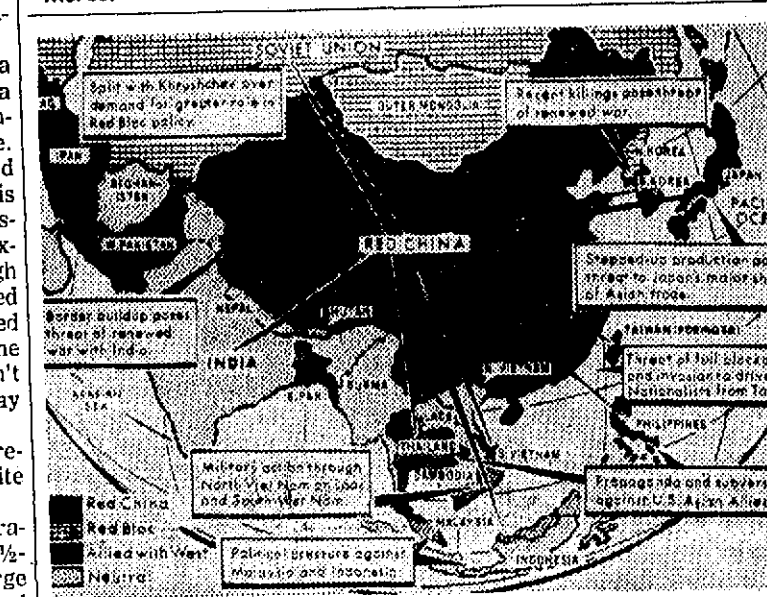

But instead, the drilling began eight feet west of the original hole. Charnbury said officials made the decision to drill eight feet west of the original hole after

Champion Melon So Far

THIS MELON IS THE LARGEST PRODUCED SO FAR IN Hempstead County this season and was grown by Aubrey Goodwin, Willisville, who has produced the largest grown in the area in years past. The certified weight is 146 pounds. The melon was presented to Citizens National Bank in connection with Hospitality Week just completed by the Hope Chamber of Commerce.

Major Shot While Playing Golf

BLYTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Maj. M. G. Murphy of the Blytheville Air Force Base suffered a minor leg wound Monday when he was struck by a bullet while playing golf at the base course.

Sheriff William Berryman said marksmen often used a ditch adjacent to the course for target practice. He said the shooting apparently was accidental, but that his deputies were investigating.

Notes From County Agent C. Caldwell

The 4-H Club fun day will be held at the Southwest Branch Experiment Station on Thursday, August 22. The event will get underway at 4:00 p.m. Club members are asked to bring sandwiches for the meal.

Fall Armyworms
Fall armyworm infestations are increasing in the state. You may want to watch for them here. Winds from the Gulf Coast cause the armyworm moths to move northward. Should you need to spray use 1 quart 57% Malathion emulsifiable concentrate per acre within 7 days of cutting or grazing. Sevin can be used without a time limit. Use 2 pounds actual material per acre.

Cattle Spray
Co-Ral and Ruelene are systemic insecticides that may be used for controlling insects on beef cattle. Use 4 pounds of 25% Co-Ral wettable powder, or ½ gallon of 25% Ruelene concentrate to 50 gallons of water. By using this material at monthly intervals horn flies, lice, ticks and cattle grubs may be controlled.

Santa Gertrudis Cattle
Jewel Moore has recently purchased twenty head of Santa Gertrudis heifers and will be moving them to his farm about October 1. The cattle are to be treated as a commercial herd. He also purchased a Brahman bull to put with the herd.

CAMPA Meeting
Dairymen of this county and others of the district met at the county courthouse last night. They heard staff members of CAMPA say that 1,000,000 pounds of additional milk was needed for next year. The group encouraged their producers to build a large base production this fall. They also encouraged dairymen to do pasture work, use artificial breeding, and good management practices.

Woman Perishes
in Farm Fire
BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Joe Elio, 55, burned to death Sunday in a fire that destroyed her farm home near Wilson, 25 miles south of Blytheville. Her husband was outside when the fire started. He suffered burns on his arms in an attempt to save her, but he was not hospitalized.

$600,000 St., Storm Sewer Job Planned

A proposed $600,000 paving and sewer project was discussed at length last night by members of the City Board following announcement yesterday that a grant of $250,000 on the project had been approved by the Federal government.

The $250,000 grant will have to be matched locally. Tentatively the City officials plan to use approximately $120,000 in city surplus earnings and the balance to be raised in a street and sewer improvement district. This property owners will have to foot the bill for the balance. This will be done through the street-sewer district over several years. Portions of such a district will be circulated and entire project depends on approval of property owners.

Here's the major streets in the project: Opening up Edgewood; 16th and Edgewood to Main; Shover St. from Highway 4 to Laurel; Laurel and Walnut Streets; 6th and 9th from Edgewood to Main, 13th, 14th and 15th Streets, Foster or First St. and 2nd St. and many other blocks. The area involved is north of the Missouri Pacific tracks and east of Main Streets.

Legislature Is Rapped by Rep. Brandon

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Jim Brandon of Pulaski County one of the so-called Young Turks of the state legislature, joined in criticizing the 1963 General Assembly Monday night in a speech to a civic club.

He said the leadership of the Democratic Party in Arkansas — notably Gov. Orval E. Faubus — was responsible for the bad showing because it had not faced up to responsibility.

Brandon reminded the group that others have attacked the past legislative session. He mentioned Independence County Rep. Virgil Butler, state Sen. Bob Harvey of Swift, Lee County Rep. W. L. Ward and Benton County Rep. Hardy Croxton, who has often been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor in 1964.

"A look at the newspapers credits our governor with statements that he contemplates voting for a Republican candidate for president in 1964 and also that he frowns on free presidential elections next year," Brandon said.

"It is difficult to reconcile these statements with the absence of Kennedy-Johnson elections on the last presidential ballot in Arkansas," he said.

In 1960, Arkansas' presidential electors' names were on the ballot, but they were not connected on the ballot with President Kennedy or Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Brandon said mention of these incidents should be proof that leaders of the Democratic Party in Arkansas are shirking their responsibilities.

Further proof, he said, is in the fact that nobody seems to want the job of replacing Pat Mahaffey as Democratic National Committeeman from Arkansas. Mahaffey has been appointed to a U.S. Court of Appeals.

Taken together, these incidents prove Democratic leadership is floundering, Brandon said.

"The time has arrived for a wholesale election of bold, aggressive, ambitious, conscientious Democrats to public office who will accept the responsibilities of leadership equal to the challenge of re-organizing and reeducating the party to the basic principles of its illustrious founders," he said.

Part of the blame rests with the voters, Brandon said, who are quick to protect their pocket book, but apparently care little about so-called good government ideas.

Guilliams Rites Set Wednesday

Funeral services for H. O. Guilliams, 55, who died Monday while visiting in Shreveport, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at Liberty Baptist Church by the Rev. Gene Outler, the Rev. James Johnson and the Rev. W. T. Butler. Burial by Oakcrest Funeral Home will be in Caney Cemetery.

Governors Act to Stall Rights Fight

By DON MCKEE

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Southern governors adopted today a unanimity rule which forestalled a possible fight over anti-civil rights proposals.

Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, in a surprise act, not only agreed to the rule change but also seconded the move at the Southern Governors Conference.

Eleven governors voted for the change, which means that any resolution will need a unanimous vote for adoption.

Wallace's anti-civil rights resolutions had threatened to divide the conference.

The rule change was recommended by Gov. Donald Russell of South Carolina.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas, chairman, appointed four moderates and one segregationist, Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, to the resolutions committee.

Others named were Govs. Elbert N. Carvel of Delaware, chairman; Carl Sanders of Georgia.

Hospitality Week Proved Successful

The Chamber of Commerce Hospitality week was a success in many ways. 700 persons representing 25 states stopped to sample Hope Hospitality and watermelon.

The reaction of those who stopped at one of the stands was very good. They liked the brief halt. Bill Tolleson, Chairman, and Haskell Jones, President would like to express their thanks to the B&PW Club, the Civilians, the Jaycees, and Jayceettes, the Shouting Council, Kiwanis, Rotary, and Lions for the way they helped at the check points and hospitality centers. The states and county police deserve recognition for their work in halting traffic so they could be given certificates for a slice of melon.

Barry's Quik Sack, Dick Erwin, Russell's Curb Market, and Strickland's Stand are to be commended for the fine way they met the tourist and served them. Fred Ellis, Bud Collier, and Forrest Singleton collected the contributions of $5.00 from local citizens to finance the project. Citizens National Bank was awarded a 143 pound melon and may have it shipped anywhere in the U.S.A.

The chamber feels that much publicity and goodwill was developed through this project. They anticipate letters and reactions from tourist for the next several weeks who may write to express their gratitude or tell others about Hope Hospitality and its superb watermelons.

Thinks Pact to Endanger U.S. Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Edward Teller said today he believes the Soviet Union wants the limited nuclear test ban treaty because it has learned how to defend against incoming missiles and hopes to prevent the United States from obtaining similar knowledge.

Ratification of the treaty would be "a tragic and dreadful mistake," he declared.

Teller, University of California nuclear physicist, told senators considering the pact, that failure to ratify the treaty now that it has been signed would be a small mistake in the diplomatic field, but would not, however, endanger U.S. security.

Ratification, he added, would be "an enormously bigger mistake." Teller said he believes the treaty is "not a step for peace but rather a step toward safety, possibly a step toward war."

The last quarter of a century, he said, has been a time of "extremely rapid development, full of surprises."

"At no time have we known what the next step will bring," he said. "What we are now trying to do, essentially, is to predict the future."

Teller was the first outright opponent of the treaty to testify at hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, at which members of the Armed Services and Atomic Energy Committees are sitting in.

Gen. Thomas S. Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command, testified against ratification of the treaty Monday at closed hearings being conducted simultaneously by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, a unit of the Armed Services Committee.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, the Air Force chief of staff, expressed misgivings about the treaty at the Foreign Relations Committee's hearings Monday, although he went along with the other service chiefs in supporting ratification

Negro Pleads Guilty in Murder Case

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Roy Bevels, 62, a Negro of El Dorado, pleaded guilty to first-degree murder Monday and was sentenced to life in prison for the fatal shooting of a 4-year-old Negro boy Dec. 3.

Two other persons were killed in the same shooting spree. A Union Circuit Court jury deliberated 10 minutes before returning its verdict.

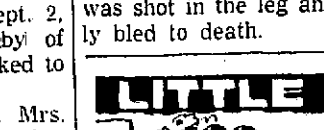

Bevels was charged in the death of Llewellyn Ordway, who was struck in the head by a pistol bullet as he played on the porch of his grandfather's house.

The grandfather, Alex Gibson, 71, and Bevels' estranged wife, Mrs. Rosie Lee Bevels, 61, also were shot to death. Bevels was charged with first degree murder in the deaths of all three, and Judge Gus W. Jones said Bevels would be tried for the deaths of his wife and Gibson if he ever received a pardon.

Police said Bevels had gotten into an argument with his wife at Gibson's house and started beating her on the head with a pistol. When Gibson tried to restrain him, police said, Bevels apparently fired at him but missed and hit the boy.

Gibson was struck in the chest by another bullet. Mrs. E. Bevels was shot in the leg and apparently bled to death.

When you read some magazine articles you wonder what the editors could have rejected.

provided specified security safeguards are carried out.

Teller, one of the creators of the hydrogen bomb, said the treaty banning tests in the atmosphere, in space, and under water would prohibit the United States from acquiring knowledge about the effects of nuclear weapons that he termed vital to the development of a missile defense.

Teller said that one of the many surprises in the nuclear field was the announcement by the Russians after their moratorium-breaking test series in 1961 that they had made "great strides toward a missile defense."

He said their test series gave the Russians every chance to make observations in the atmosphere for the development of an effective, or even a half effective, missile defense system.

Teller said he had thought in the past that development of an antiballistic missile system was hopeless but now is convinced that "we can put up a missile defense that will stop a weaker power like China" for his next two decades.

"I also believe our defense can be partially effective against Russia," he said. "We may not be able to save our cities, but we may be able to save our retaliatory capacity."

Teller said the development of a defense against incoming missiles may "make the difference between our survival of a nation and it may make the difference between peace and war."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other witnesses have testified that the United States already has nuclear warheads that could be used in an antiballistic missile, that the difficulties involve radar, launch vehicles and other parts of the system for which atmospheric nuclear testing is not necessary.

Teller, an adviser to the Air Force on ballistic systems and missile sites, told the preparedness subcommittee last week that approval of the treaty would have "grave consequences for the security of the United States and for the free world."

Power's censored testimony is to be made public later, but Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., reported his position. Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., quoted Power as saying, "It would be a great mistake to ratify this treaty," and said he agreed.

The heads of the Air Force, Army, Navy and Marine Corps testified publicly Monday in support of the treaty provided minimum safeguards are guaranteed. All four agreed with previous testimony by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that they would not have approved the treaty if they had not been assured safeguards would be provided.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, the Air Force chief, said under questioning, however, that if the treaty were still in the proposal stage, "I think I would recommend against it." LeMay qualified this by saying he would have to give the question, from Thurmond, a lot of thought.

Later, in a closed session, LeMay was reported by the foreign

BANCROFT'S BANCO

BY NELSON C. NYE

THE STORY: Don Alfredo Ybarra has invited Benson to visit his ranch across the river from the place Benson is half owner. One of the group visiting Ybarra is a customs collector introduced as "Don Patricio."

XIV

Since Dorris looked mightily put out with the suggestion, which obviously had not included him, I assured Don Alfredo I should be most happy to accept.

Thus it happened that the four of us—his daughter, Don Alfredo, the grouse-hunting tax collector and myself—struck out for the hacienda, leaving a fortune of livestock at the mercy of menials. Although not entirely at ease with this arrangement, such as I had been, I was more than a little reassured by the Spanish treachery.

It was unthinkable Ybarra at this stage of our acquaintance—and with never an untoward act to prompt it—should be contriving either to dispose of my property, or plotting any kind of disadvantage to my person.

Actually, I was looking forward with a keen, even impatient, interest to an inside, on-the-ground look at Villalobos.

Oddly enough, I found myself paired off with the girl.

As we rode along I got my first close-up look at the lady of quality and I liked what I saw.

She seemed not as young, close up, as I'd imagined. Most likely in her middle twenties, uncommonly well preserved for this climate.

That she was also perceptive I discovered very presently when, out of a rather constrained silence, she said: "I'm not like that, really," with her glance straight ahead.

"Like What?" I said, more by way of politeness than with actual curiosity.

As a matter of fact my thoughts were far afield, endeavoring to gauge how much weather we would probably have to have to entice that river to get out of its banks and gouge the new channel that would be the first leg in takcheck her words had given, I have to admit they accomplished what I was after.

"Like whatever you imagined when you set out on the buffoonery of that ridiculous kiss."

Our eyes met and held. Although mentally wobbling from the she probably had intended. She had, abruptly, every shred of my attention. There was, apparently, more to her than I had suspected.

With burning cheeks and a bitter disgust of having put myself in so ambiguous a position, unable to escape the clutch of her stare I suppose I stumbled around rather badly.

She showed no patience with my protestations. "Stammering," she said, "does not greatly become you." And then, openly angry: "Did you honestly imagine I was so obtuse—so unappealingly arrogant. I would not know I was being made fun of?"

"But... you looked pleased!"

"Can you imagine what it's like, being raised as I have been, without sisters or brothers, in a place like Villalobos? To be imprisoned in a mask imposed by the proprieties? The victim of moves I never had a voice in? To watch your hopes die one by one and all your life?" She pulled a breath deep into her, shuddering.

Gripped so fiercely by her glare I could not move. The intensity of her feeling, it seemed to me, was almost brutal. So beside herself she looked I drew back, almost in alarm. Confused I stared, not understanding, half expecting to discover a dagger in the rebellious lift of that outflung hand.

She let it drop.

Flogged with self scorn she said more quietly, "It takes so little to please a solterona—a spinster, who has nothing but dead dreams."

The gall of her saying so outrageous a thing to a man she had never set eyes on before rather dampened my enthusiasm for touring the hacienda. I was so taken aback I could not say anything.

I have no idea what she read into my silence. Her shoulders sagged, almost seemed to sway. In a lightning change, quick and harsh, she cried: "Don't look at me that way—I don't want your pity!"

After this outburst she whirled and ran off down a path hedged and scarlet with swaying fronds of bouganvillea. For astonished moments I stood incapable of movement, peering incredulously after her, the preposterous words with which I had been pelted ringing through my head to confound me further. The whole affair was ridiculous. So why was I angry?

When I caught up with the others, no one questioned her disappearance. Perhaps I was too involved to notice. She had upset me certainly; I could still feel the blaze of her affronted emotions.

Arkansan Survives Wreck and Fire

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—J.M. Shaw, 46, of Magnolia, Ark., is recovering in a hospital here from injuries suffered when the truck he was driving hit a ditch and burned.

The accident happened early Saturday at Greenwood, La., where U. S. Highway 79 reaches a dead end at the intersection of U. S. 80.

Shaw, an employee of the Western Lines Trucking Co., of Houston, Tex., was en route north with a truck load of prefabricated steel when he failed to make the turn into U. S. 80 and hit the ditch. The steel shifted, pinning Shaw in the cab. State Police reported.

W. D. Anderson, 50, of Logansport, La., a deputy tax collector at a nearby state truck weighing station, succeeded in extricating Shaw before the flames reached the cab. The Greenwood Fire Department put out the fire.

Shaw suffered a broken leg and shoulder.

er talking to Fellin. Engineers explained that if they drilled too close to the original hole it could block the smaller lifeline hole to Fellin a part owner of the mine, and Henry Throne, 28, of Hazleton. They are together and are reported to be in good spirals.

The twin six-inch hole was begun Monday night but shortly before midnight drilling to Bova was halted at 90 feet because the noise of the drill was interfering with communications to Fellin and Throne.

Food, aspirin, water, a flashlight, chewing tobacco and an electric cord were lowered to Fellin and Throne, who were trapped along a gangway where they fled after the main shaft walls of the mine collapsed.

Communications between the men and rescuers were cut off for about 45 minutes Monday night when a speaker where Fellin and Throne are located failed. Rescuers couldn't relay any information to the two men. A new speaker was lowered into the mine.

Fellin reported that Bova was about 25 feet from him and Throne. He said he talked to Bova at intervals and that Bova apparently had suffered a hip injury. Later he lost contact with Bova and thought that perhaps Bova went to sleep or tried to change his location.

Fellin and Throne tried to clear away debris to reach Bova but were unsuccessful. Throughout the day and night, Fellin could be heard, calling, "Lou, Lou."

Wallace explained he favored the unanimity rule because it gives him veto power over any resolutions he does not like. He did not elaborate.

The rules change followed a marching demonstration Monday by some 100 Negroes and several white persons to the gate of the Greenbrier Hotel where the governors were in session. They carried signs denouncing Wallace and Barnett.

"They're just practicing up for Washington," quipped Wallace, referring to the scheduled Aug. 28 civil rights march on the capital.

The demonstrators were met at the gate by Gov. W. W. Barron of West Virginia. He agreed to meet with spokesmen for the group and the marchers dispersed.

After an hour-long session in his hotel suite, Barron said agreement had been reached on some areas of discussion and another meeting would be held.

Wallace planned to offer resolutions condemning the Aug. 28 march, use of federal troops or National Guardsmen by the President to handle racial troubles, and the public accommodations section of President Kennedy's civil rights bill.

The resolutions will go to a committee to be appointed by the conference chairman, Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, who told the opening session: "If we engage in debate over controversial issues, we can cause division and possibly destroy the basic usefulness and purpose of the conference."

Gov. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, the only Republican in the 17-state conference, agreed with Faubus, saying the resolutions "could very well halt any progress we might make."

Mississippi's Barnett said, "I think we ought to debate these matters. I believe in fighting it out."

The resolutions committee will make its report Wednesday, the final day of the meeting.

Barnett suggested Monday that the nation's Negro population be divided by the states.

He told newsmen the Department of Labor should relocate Negroes to give each state 10 per cent of the Negro population.

This would mean that Mississippi, with 42 per cent Negro population, would lose 687,000 persons, Barnett said.

21 AND SCARED OF HIS SHADOW
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I have no intestinal fortitude. Never had.

At 15 I enrolled in an art course, stuck it out three days, then transferred to an industrial school which I liked even less. I might have remained but for a compulsory period a week of swimming. I was scared to go swimming without a bathing suit and walked out.

I got a work permit out no job. Looking back on the drifting goallessness of the following two years I can't understand how I ever lived them.

Then a police officer caused me to take a decisive step. A neighbor offered me a job helping him fix fence. When I got home a police officer was looking for me. The school had been broke into and I was chief suspect!

The only evidence was a note I'd left at a kid's house upon not finding him at home. But there was nothing in it to indicate where and why it had been written. A girl had found it in the desk of the boy to whom it was addressed and came up with the notion that I had done the breaking in. The policeman said that if I admitted it, I would get off easier, even though not true. I "confessed."

He seemed sorry for me though and ask how much money mother and I lived on. "Ten dollars a week," I said. My dad had deserted us and been ordered by the juvenile and family court to send us $12 a week, but he sent $10.

"Kinda tough, isn't it?" said the cop. "I'll let you off if you got a job." When he showed up next morning I was just leaving to help fix the fence. I continued working for this man the rest of the summer. The following September I went back to school and really threw myself into work, getting marks in the mid-80s.

In the spring of '61 (I was in grade 10) my dad disappeared. The following winter we lived on $3 a week that my grandmother sent us. In the summer and last winter it was okay because both my brother and I worked.

I have always been a pushover as far as pay is concerned, not having the spunk to speak up. Recently I read an article by a David Lowishaw in Toronto who runs an organization to help mistreated people without charge: UNDERDOG, Box 123. I sent him all the details about my dad. He located him. I've considered demanding that Dad put me up until I find a job but I haven't the nerve. What, if anything, should I do? —Need Help

Dear Helen: Your father is not the person to help you. As his past record clearly shows. There are more constructive courses of action open. You could enlist in the army, navy, or marine corps. While in Service take the necessary courses to complete your high school education. If for some reason you aren't eligible for one of the Services, go to your nearest state employment bureau, find out what job opportunities exist.

Whether or not you finished high school, I strongly recommend that you go back to the principal or to the guidance office for advice about getting your diploma (if you haven't it), employment and possible vocational training. You unquestionably need help and I'm sure you'll get it from one of these sources—but not from your father. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "That First Job."

Dear Helen: You've helped me before. Maybe you can again. I'm having trouble with my husband and so-called best friend.

After an evening here, she kisses him right smack on the mouth when leaving, pretending it's done in fun.

The first time I wasn't surprised. It's the repeat performance that gets me for she is young and pretty. My husband is handsome and I trust him but—when he heard how I felt he sympathized but still does nothing to discourage the mix. Being my best friend, I hesitate to tell her off. How can I put a stop to their kissing fest without breaking up my marriage and this friendship? —Uneasy

Dear Unesay: All's fair in love and war. Next time your friend drops in, raise the question of whether or not promiscuous kissing spreads the disease of mononucleosis. Ask your physician to describe the symptoms then quote him to the culprits. Dollars to doughnuts their next leave taking will be with a handshake!

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

the games and also gave numbers to the guests as they arrived for the door prize. The winner was Miss Cox, who received many lovely and useful gifts.

The serving table, covered with a white linen cutwork cloth, was centered with a two-tiered white epergne filled with blue mums and white pom mums flanked by burning blue tapers in white cupid holders.

Bride-Elect Feted With Drop-In Shower

Miss Anni Cox, bride-elect of Dale Wylie, was feted at a drop-in shower, Thursday evening, August 8 from 7 to 9 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Mack Hillery and Miss Nancy Hillery at Prescott. Co-hostesses were Mrs. J. W. Barham, Mrs. Art Hildebrand and Mrs. George N. Cox, Jr.

In keeping with the pink color scheme carried out by the hostess the honoree wore a pink sheath dress. Corsages of white pom mums were presented to Miss Cox, her mother, Mrs. Pershing Cox, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Arch Wylie.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth over pink and centered with a miniature bride and groom under a white arch decorated with greenery and white abelias. On either side of the arrangement were burning white tapers in crystal holders. Individual white cakes embossed in pink, nuts and frosted punch were served to about forty guests. Mrs. Hillery presided at the punch bowl and Miss Kathy Cox, sister of the bride-elect, served the cakes.

Miss Cox received many lovely gifts which were displayed on long tables in the den.

Training Is Helping The Retarded

By OTTO DOELLING

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A strong awareness of time pervades a white-brick mansion which is the home of nine teenage girls engaged in a unique experiment.

With their first earnings, they bought watches, symbols of personal responsibility.

"I learn how to leave the house for work on time. That is very important," one girl wrote.

Such an accomplishment may not seem remarkable for girls of 17 and 18. But, while these girls are mature physically, their mental growth has stopped at 10 and 11. They are officially certified as mental defectives and have been institutionalized, on the average, for three years.

They comprise the second group to participate in a work-study pilot project being conducted through the Syracuse State School for Mental Defectives.

Participants are selected from the 275 female patients at the state school on the basis of age, comparatively high level of intelligence—average IQ 66—and emotional stability.

Dr. Jacob Schneider, director of the state school, said the project's purpose is "to prove we can get such girls out of the rut of domestic work, which has been the traditional outlet for them."

If the project proves successful, he said, it may be expanded to other communities, and such homes may be opened for young men.

Of the first group of six women, aged 19 to 27, five have been discharged and one continues under school supervision while employed in a cafeteria in her home community.

Of the five who were discharged two work in a cafeteria at Syracuse University, two are employed in hospital work here and one was a seamstress in a downtown department store until her recent marriage. All were placed in the jobs through the school.

Of the girls now at the home, two are department store stock girls, two are employed in a hospital, one works in a laundry and four work in a private workshop for the handicapped.

The girls have a strong desire to succeed—to "be accepted and to be like everyone else," Schneider said.

Since the school year ended, the girls have worked full-time. Before that, they spent half of the work day on the job and the other half at the home. There they received instructions in the basic subjects and in abilities needed on the job and in day-to-day living, such as making change, reading bus schedules, paying income taxes, banking and budgeting.

22.7 Million Chicks in July

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Commercial hatcheries in Arkansas produced 22,707,000 chicks during July 1963, a six per cent increase compared with the same month a year ago, the Crop Reporting Service said today.

Broiler-type chick production totaled 21,956,000 during the month and the egg-type hatch accounted for 841,000 chicks. During the first seven months of 1963 a total of 159,886,000 chicks were hatched

Mrs. Theodore Mead Jones, Jr.

The First Baptist Church was the setting on Sunday, August 18 for the wedding of Miss Linda Loy Thrash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hubert Thrash, and Theodore Mead Jones, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mead Jones, Sr., all of this city.

Dr. George L. Balentine officiated at the double-ring ceremony before a background of greenery and candles. Mrs. H. A. Spraggins, organist, played a program of pre-nuptial music and accompanied the vocal soloist, Jack Blackshear of Paragould.

He sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Because" before the exchange of vows, and concluded the ceremony with "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt on a prie Dieu. The gold-colored tapers were lighted by Larry Malpica of Conway and Arthur Johnson of Little Rock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The lace bodice had a scalloped neckline and long sleeves which ended in petal points over the hands. Fashioned with a bustle effect, the bell-shaped skirt swept into a chapel train. The tiered, finger-tip veil of illusion was held in place by petals of a peau de soie rose. The bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls, which was a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Ann Sutton was the bride's maid of honor, and Miss Hilda Hancock of Monticello, Miss Kay Carroll of Jackson, Miss., and Mrs. Wesley Shumate of Texarkana were the bridesmaids. Each wore gold peau de soie with short sleeves, a boat neckline, and a petal skirt which had a bell-were distributed to the guests by Miss Kathy Thrash of Hope and Miss June McWha of Hot Springs.

For travel the bride wore a cranberry cotton suit with printed blouse and black accessories. She had a white rose corsage from her bridal bouquet. After a wedding trip to the Little Rock Country Club, the newlyweds will be at home in Conway at 1018 Clifton.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding and reception included: Mrs. Jeffie Jones, Pine Bluff, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Thad Ruck, Albert Alexander, Pine Bluff; Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wooten, Mrs. Edith G. Jones, Idabel, Okla.; Mrs. Lessie Carson, Judy Carl Lee, Jane Ward, Sarah Buttram, Susan Hefley, Gloria Bronte, Little Rock; Mr. and Mrs. David Haynes, Austin; Dave Vick, Fort Smith; Mrs. Harvey Melson, Harvey Nelson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brown, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Evans and Mike, Wesley Shumate, Texarkana; Ernest McWha, Hot Springs; Raymond Pritchett, Lepanto; Kent Darwin, Conway Art Monroe, Magnolia; Miss Beryl Henry, Benton.

SUCCESS... what is it? Most everybody is looking for it in one way or another. Does success mean money, prestige, power, accomplishment or just what?

We like the definition which says... "Success is that element which gives satisfaction in living." If you are happy in the work you are doing, sharing what you have with others, living and letting live, then you are a successful person.

There is a story about the reporter who was interviewing a very successful and important man. He asked the question: "To what do you attribute your success?" The man thought for a little while and said... "Well, I am just trying to make an honest living and I do not have much competition."

Confidently, we think it is up to the women to make anything successful, whether it is a job in the city, a career at home, making a marriage work or taking care of a family... never under estimate the power of a woman!

The smart woman always plans in advance, that is why so many are looking at the new fall suits at Raley's. They are coming in almost every day, choose yours while the selection is at its very best, leave it in our air-conditioned stock room until you are ready to call for it.

You can make a grand entrance into the fall season with styles that are uncluttered, fabrics and double knits, so rich and colorful, it will take some doing to make the decision. You will love the Suburbia length, a little longer than short.

We invite you to see them all today and the place is Raley's Style Shoppe, 523 West 3rd St. Hope's House of Fashion.

Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Washington, Ark. was the winner of the "Kore of California" Sweater and Skirt Set given by Raley's Style Shoppe Saturday, August 17th. The name was drawn by Miss Mary Lou Park.

Mrs. Joe L. Shields had charge of the bride's book, and rice bags

Training Is Helping The Retarded

By OTTO DOELLING

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A strong awareness of time pervades a white-brick mansion which is the home of nine teenage girls engaged in a unique experiment.

With their first earnings, they bought watches, symbols of personal responsibility. "I learn how to leave the house for work on time. That is very important," one girl wrote.

Such an accomplishment may not seem remarkable for girls of 17 and 18. But, while these girls are mature physically, their mental growth has stopped at 10 and 11. They are officially certified as mental defectives and have been institutionalized, on the average, for three years.

They comprise the second group to participate in a work-study pilot project being conducted through the Syracuse State School for Mental Defectives.

Participants are selected from the 275 female patients at the state school on the basis of age, comparatively high level of intelligence—average IQ 66—and emotional stability.

Dr. Jacob Schneider, director of the state school, said the project's purpose is "to prove we can get such girls out of the rut of domestic work, which has been the traditional outlet for them."

If the project proves successful, he said, it may be expanded to other communities, and such homes may be opened for young men.

Of the first group of six women, aged 19 to 27, five have been discharged and one continues under school supervision while employed in a cafeteria in her home community.

Of the five who were discharged two work in a cafeteria at Syracuse University, two are employed in hospital work here and one was a seamstress in a downtown department store until her recent marriage. All were placed in the jobs through the school.

Of the girls now at the home, two are department store stock girls, two are employed in a hospital, one works in a laundry and four work in a private workshop for the handicapped.

The girls have a strong desire to succeed—to "be accepted and to be like everyone else," Schneider said.

Since the school year ended, the girls have worked full-time. Before that, they spent half of the work day on the job and the other half at the home. There they received instructions in the basic subjects and in abilities needed on the job and in day-to-day living, such as making change, reading bus schedules, paying income taxes, banking and budgeting.

22.7 Million Chicks in July

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Commercial hatcheries in Arkansas produced 22,797,000 chicks during July 1963, a six per cent increase compared with the same month a year ago, the Crop Reporting Service said today.

Broiler-type chick production totaled 21,958,000 during the month and the egg-type hatch accounted for 841,000 chicks. During the first seven months of 1963 a total of 159,886,000 chicks were hatched

Mrs. Theodore Mead Jones, Jr.

The First Baptist Church was the setting on Sunday, August 18 for the wedding of Miss Linda Loy Thrash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hubert Thrash, and Theodore Mead Jones, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Mead Jones, Sr., all of this city.

Dr. George L. Balentine officiated at the double-ring ceremony before a background of greenery and candles. Mrs. H. A. Spraggins, organist, played a program of pre-nuptial music and accompanied the vocal soloist, Jack Blackshear of Paragould. He sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Because" before the exchange of vows, and concluded the ceremony with "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt on a prie Dieu. The gold-colored tapers were lighted by Larry Malpica of Conway and Arthur Johnson of Little Rock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie and Chantilly lace. The lace bodice had a scalloped neckline and long sleeves which ended in petal points over the hands. Fashioned with a bustle effect, the bell-shaped skirt swept into a chapel train. The tiered, finger-tip veil of illusion was held in place by petals of a peau de soie rose. The bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls, which was a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Ann Sutton was the bride's maid of honor, and Miss Hilda Hancock of Monticello, Miss Kay Carroll of Jackson, Miss., and Mrs. Wesley Shumate of Texarkana were the bridesmaids. Each wore gold peau de soie with short sleeves, a boat neckline, and a petal skirt which had a bell-shaped effect. A single gold rose with a short veil attached was worn on the head, and yellow roses were carried.

Richard McKelvey of Paragould was the best man. Groomsman who also served as ushers were Larry Thrash, brother of the bride, and George Jones and Dah Jones, brothers of the bridegroom. Byron Smiley of Hot Springs also ushered.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Thrash wore brocade crape au lait peau de soie with matching jacket and blending accessories. Mrs. Jones, mother of the groom, wore a jacket dress of candlelight peau de soie with matching accessories. Each had a brown-throated yellow cymbidium orchid.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the reception hall of the church. Mrs. Bob Herndon, Jr. greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line, where they met the wedding couple their parents and members of the wedding party.

White stocks and yellow tapers in silver candleabra decorated the serving tables. Mrs. Albert Alexander of Pine Bluff and Mrs. Jewel Moore, Jr. served the cake, and Mrs. M. S. Bates and Mrs. Ray Lawrence poured the punch at the bride's table. Coffee and cake were served at the groom's table by Mrs. Horace Fuller, Miss Barbara Caston, and Mrs. Ernest McWha of Hot Springs.

Assisting in serving were Misses Jo Carolyn Lewis, Juanita Messer, Mary Lou Park, Dorothy Smith, Sharon Feilding, Dora Ann King, Pam Aslin, and Lana Thompson. Also dispensing hospitality were Mesdames Bonnie Edwards, Perry Moses, Edgar Thrash, Claud Sutton, and Henry Haynes.

Mrs. Joe L. Shields had charge of the bride's book, and rice bags were distributed to the guests by Miss Kathy Thrash of Hope and Miss June McWha of Hot Springs.

For travel the bride wore a cranberry cotton suit with printed blouse and black accessories. She had a white rose corsage from her bridal bouquet. After a wedding trip to the Little Rock Country Club, the newlyweds will be at home in Conway at 1018 Clifton.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding and reception included: Mrs. Jeffie Jones, Pine Bluff, grandmother of the groom; Mrs. J. O. Gold, Washington, grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Thad Rudd, Albert Alexander, Pine Bluff; Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wooten, Mrs. Edith G. Jones, Idabel, Okla.; Mrs. Lessie Carson, Judy Carl Lee, Jane Ward, Sarah Buttram, Susan Hefley, Gloria Bronte, Little Rock; Mr. and Mrs. David Haynes, Austin; Dave Vick, Fort Smith; Mrs. Harvey Melson, Harvey Nelson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brown, Mr. and Mrs. B. SUCCESS... what is it? Most everybody is looking for it in one way or another. Does success mean money, prestige, power, accomplishment or just what?

We like the definition which says... "Success is that element which gives satisfaction in living." If you are happy in the work you are doing, sharing what you have with others, living and letting live, then you are a successful person.

There is a story about the reporter who was interviewing a very successful and important man. He asked the question: "To what do you attribute your success?" The man thought for a little while and said... "Well, I am just trying to make an honest living and I do not have much competition."

Confidently, we think it is up to the women to make anything successful, whether it is a job in the city, a career at home, making a marriage work or taking care of a family... never underestimate the power of a woman!

The smart woman always plans in advance, that is why so many are looking at the new fall suits at Raley's. They are coming in almost every day, choose yours while the selection is at it's very best, leave it in our air-conditioned stock room until you are ready to call for it.

You can make a grand entrance into the fall season with styles that are uncluttered, fabrics and double knits, so rich and colorful, it will take some doing to make the decision. You will love the Suburbia length, a little longer than short.

We invite you to see them all today and the place is Raley's Style Shoppe, 523 West 3rd St. Hope's House of Fashion.

Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Washington, Ark. was the winner of the "Korea of California" Sweater and Skirt Set given by Raley's Style Shoppe Saturday, August 17th. The name was drawn by Miss Mary Lou Park.

Duck Hunters Get Season Extension

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Game and Fish Commission announced Monday that Arkansas duck hunters would have a 35-day season instead of the 25 days allowed last year.

The commission also announced the seasons for geese and deer.

Gus Albright, commission news director, said duck season would open Dec. 2 and continue through Jan. 5 with shooting hours beginning at sunrise and ending at sunset on closing day, Albright said.

Shooting will begin at noon and end at sunset on opening day and will begin at sunrise and end at sunset on closing day, Albright said.

Albright said hunting season for geese would open Oct. 28 and close Jan. 5 with shooting hours beginning at sunrise and ending at sunset. He said there would be no season on Canadian Geese or their sub-species.

Albright said deer season would be split into three periods with the first Nov. 11-16, the second Dec. 9-14 and the third Dec. 28-Jan. 2.

Deer hunting regulations by districts including counties are:

District 1: Cross, Craighead, Poinsett, Crittenden, Mississippi, Phillips, St. Francis, Greene, Clay, and Lee counties. Limits the same as last year except in St. Francis National Forest which will be closed to hunting.

District 2: Independence, Fulton, Lawrence, White, Sharp, Stone, Izard, Cleburne, Prairie, Monroe, Randolph, Jackson, and Woodruff counties. In all three periods only bucks may be shot and beagle hounds may be used with two exceptions. One, no dogs may be used in the Ozark National Forest, and two, in Monroe and Prairie counties south of highway 70 bucks only may be shot and any dog may be used in the first two periods.

During the third period in district south of highway 70 in Monroe and Prairie Counties either sex deer may be shot and any dog may be used.

White River Wildlife Refuge: Deer hunting with guns season Nov. 14-16. Any deer may be taken but hunting is restricted to the part of the refuge south of the gas line. The bow season for deer is Oct. 17-30. Squirrel season is Oct. 1-12. No permits are required for hunting deer or squirrel with guns but permits are required for bow and arrow deer hunting.

District 3: Baxter, Boone, Marion, Van Buren, Searey, Logan, Washington, Benton, Carroll, Newton, Madison, Johnson, Franklin, Crawford, Sebastian, and Scott counties. Limits are the same as last year except Benton County will be closed to deer hunting. A small portion of Baxter County along the highway near Lake Norfork will also be closed as a safety factor to persons living in the area. The boundaries will be defined later, Albright said.

District 4: Ouachita, Pike, Miller, Lafayette, Polk, Montgomery, Nevada, Howard, Sevier, Little River, Union, Ashley, Clark, Columbia, Calhoun, Bradley and Hempstead counties. First and second periods bucks only with dogs. Third period any deer with dogs in Union and Ashley counties and bucks only with dogs in the rest of the district.

District 5: Pulaski, Yell, Perry, Faulkner, Conway and Pope counties. Buck only with dogs in all three periods. A legal deer in district 5 must have forked antlers or

Talk It Up Time Now in Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is talk-up time in television, the month when the industry attempts to arouse fresh interest in its shows. For some reason, this year the drum-beating seems perfunctory, even listless.

Established stars of series, normally enthusiastic salesmen, sound almost mechanical. They too often show genuine interest when the talk moves to golf scores or weekend fishing conditions.

Even the producers often act as if 1963-64 is something to get over painlessly.

Actors between shots huddle, not over their scripts, but with their business managers, plotting long-term deals or figuring how they can get away from the series long enough to make a movie or a personal appearance.

In the executive schelons, where the big decisions are made, much of the thinking seems concentrated on plans for shows to be seen a year hence.

Television's original ambition to cover, in depth and on the scene, every facet of the current equal rights crisis may be dampened a bit. There are reports inside the trade that sponsors willing to help underwrite network coverage of the controversial situation are hard if not impossible to find.

New Burton, Taylor Movie Is Released

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—MGM is releasing another Elizabeth Taylor-Richard Burton movie hard on the heels of "Cleopatra."

It's called "The V.I.P.s" and it is being booked into 600 theaters throughout the world in the next several weeks. The aim is obvious—to cash in on "Cleopatra" fame. But "The V.I.P.s" could stand on its own.

This is a problem picture. The problems concern how the rich hold onto their wealth and how they avoid being ruined by it.

Author Terence Rattigan came performing after a heart attack, has been writing. A full page in a trade paper last week advertised his idea for an hour-long television series, about three song-writing brothers.

Reason American Women Are Poor Athletes, Because They Are Very Poor Sports

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions—and how many do you agree with?—

One big reason American women generally are poor athletes may be that they are poor sports.

They are pampered and made to feel superior from birth. Therefore the only role many find tolerable in life is the winner's role.

But in sports competition somebody always has to lose. That's why so few American girls are interested in athletics. They don't want to take the chance of losing—particularly in public.

A wife with a balding, potbellied, middle-aged husband usually feels serenely safe from feminine rivals. She couldn't be more wrong. This is the type of guy who keeps most of the champagne corks popping in night clubs—and pays the rent for most of the nation's love nests.

A phony, when asked what bores him most, almost invariably replies, "Phonics."

You can put it down as a fact that people who loudly object to contributing to organized charities are pretty stingy when it comes to private charity, too.

Card-Dodger Showdown Series to Start

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, who last won a pennant when Stan Musial was a kid of 25, move into Los Angeles tonight for a showdown struggle with the National League-leading Dodgers after finishing off San Francisco with two blasts, a bloop and a bobble.

Seeking their first flag since 1946, in what would be a fitting tribute to the retiring Musial, the Cardinals took the first step Monday, moving into second place with an 8-7 victory over the Giants triggered by Ken Boyer's pair of two-run homers.

Boyer's shots in the seventh and ninth innings kept the Cardinals in contention in a wild game that ended with Julian Javier racing home from first base with the winning run in the last of the ninth as Felipe Alou bobbled Tim McCarter's bloop single.

It left the Cardinals 5½ games behind the Dodgers and dropped the Giants 6½ back—1½ games in front of surging Philadelphia. The Phillies beat the New York Mets 1-0 behind Dennis Bennett's five-hitter for their eighth straight victory.

In the only other game scheduled in either league, Cleveland used a pair of three-run homers by rookie Max Alvis in consecutive trips to wallop Boston 9-3.

The Cardinals are expected to send either young Ray Sadecki or veteran Lew Burdette against the Dodgers' Johnny Podres tonight.

St. Louis completed a sweep of the three-game set with the Giants in a game held up by fog and rain for 2½ hours. Then the teams belted each other around until the decisive ninth.

Trailing 5-4, the Giants tied the score in their half on a run-scoring single by Willie Mays and a two-run triple by Alou, who tagged a 3-0 pitch with two out by ancient Sam (Toothpick) Jones.

In the bottom half of the inning, Bill White walked and Boyer hit his 17th homer. Jack Fisher replaced Billy Hoeltz on the mound and got the next two men before Javier singled.

McCarver then arched a looping fly that fell in right center and when Alou bobbled the ball, Javier raced home.

Bennett, bringing his record to 6-2, outduelled Glen Caine, 7-13. The game's only run came in the second inning on consecutive singles by Don Demeter, Clay Dalrymple and Bobby Wine. Bennett was in trouble only in the seventh when the Mets had runners on second and third with two out. He got out of it by striking out Tim Harkness.

up with an intriguing premise: What happens to a handful of well-heeled passengers whose New York flight is delayed in London by fog.

The dilemmas:

1. A shipping magnate's wife (Elizabeth Taylor) has left her husband (Burton) a note at home saying she is leaving him for a gigolo (Louis Jordan).

2. An Australian wheeler-dealer (Rod Taylor) must get to a New York board meeting to cover a worthless check he has written to save his company.

3. A Swiss-based movie director (Orson Welles) must get himself and his actress-Doxy (Elsa Martinelli) out of England or suffer a million-dollar tax loss.

Lots of chance for drama here. And it is played for all it is worth, especially when Burton shows up to win back his wife by whatever means he can.

The dilemmas are solved to the satisfaction of most of the parties involved.

What about Taylor-Burton? She is as gorgeous as ever, though her figure is a bit ample. Modern drama is obviously her forte, and she delivers without a false note.

Burton is hampered, as with Marc Antony, by having to be hang-doggish through most of the film.

Arkansas families struggling to make a living from small farms may have gold mines in their back yards.

Or, rather, their back yards may be gold mines if properly developed to cater to the growing public demand for outdoor recreational facilities.

Arkansas — especially the hill country north of Little Rock and west of Crowley's Ridge—is particularly suited to development of the family-operated recreational area. Many already exist. There is room for many more.

Outdoor recreation experts have been calling for several years for more of this kind of development as publicly owned recreational areas become overcrowded as fast as tax money will build them.

Cost of starting operations is relatively small, if the would-be entrepreneur makes a maximum use of existing facilities.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Arkansas have prepared a report on "Opportunities for Improving Rural-Family Income through Recreation Enterprises."

The report concludes that these opportunities are excellent in Arkansas.

Four types of recreational facilities — campgrounds, riding stables, summer camps and dude ranches—could be established anywhere.

The others — such as fishing lakes, float fishing, cave development and trout farms—require some co-operation from nature or considerable land or the means for acquiring it.

A campground is perhaps the least expensive from an investment point. An acre of land is enough. Tent sites can be built with a little sweat. Pipe in water and provide toilets and you have a facility that will bring from 5
